Nick Murray is the President at Redline Plastics, a dynamic company at the forefront of innovation in Manitowoc, WI, with an additional location in Hartwell, GA. Redline Plastics specializes in a diverse range of core capabilities, including but not limited to, rotational molding, vacuum forming, fiberglass-reinforced plastics, compression molding, 3D printing, and cut and sew.

Joining Redline Plastics/Dowco Marine in 2015, Nick initially managed a growing manufacturing site on the Marine side of the business located in Minnesota. Recognized for his contributions, Nick quickly earned a well-deserved promotion to the role of Vice President of Operations, overseeing the Plastics and Cut and Sew divisions following the divestiture of the Marine Division. Since then, he has been promoted to President as the company continues to expand rapidly in the marketplace. Before his tenure at Redline, Nick's professional journey unfolded in the food industry, particularly in the poultry sector. It was there that he developed a passion for team building, automation, engineering, and high-output manufacturing.

A proud alumnus of Saint John's University near St. Cloud, MN, Nick holds an undergraduate degree and furthered his education by earning a master's in business administration from St. Scholastica in 2017. His commitment to continuous improvement is evident in his role as a catalyst for Redline's remarkable growth, leading to an astonishing 2,400% increase in plastics top line revenue over a six-year period. Nick's passion extends beyond the success of Redline Plastics; it encompasses the cultivation of a high-performance team and a thriving organizational culture that reflects his dedication to excellence.

Beyond his professional endeavors, Nick's true joy lies in spending quality time with his wife and their three-year-old son, often accompanied by their energetic German Shepherd.
