Message from the Board of Directors

ASCM Update

Salutations to All Members and Friends of APICS Shoreline,

I hope this letter finds all of you and your families well. There is a lot of uncertainty in the world right now and many Supply Chains are under intense pressure. Whether it's getting a widget from a supplier or getting raw materials through a congested port, Supply Chain challenges affect everyone. Times like these reinforce the importance of solid Supply Chain fundamentals, technological competency, and of course, quality relationships in business. While I or others can speculate on what future obstacles Supply Chain will face, having the right people and a firm understanding of Supply Chain concepts will help businesses adapt to the changes to come.

As time continues to change processes and structure, Shoreline changed as well. As most are aware, Shoreline is now an ASCM Forum. One of the largest benefits of a forum is that it provides an opportunity to network with supply chain professionals with real world experience and diverse schools of thought. Having the opportunity to share current practices, discuss new technologies, and keep in touch with new supply chain practices will always have practical value. Additionally, there is significant value in keeping in touch with the community that you live and work in by giving back through volunteer time and knowledge sharing. Now is the time to reach out, engage, and interact with other professionals in your area. I personally welcome anyone who is interested in joining ASCM or just wants to get more involved in Supply Chain to reach out and attend a board meeting.

Lastly, I want to invite everyone to join October's PDM in Manitowoc at Lakeside Foods. This PDM includes a tour and dinner. It is a great opportunity to interact with other professionals and to get a glimpse into other operations and businesses in the area. Again, I want to personally thank all the ASCM members and the businesses that we interact with. It is only through everyone's support that we continue to provide these services.

Thank you!
